Ponders Delay

Editor of The Sun-Telegram: It was almost a month ago, on Oct. 10, that Adlai Stevenson, the U.S. delegate to the United Nations, again denied that we are planning any intervention or aggression against Cuba.

In view of the Kennedy Administration's haste to get World War III started, it appears that there is an unseemly delay here.

Perhaps if enough interested citizens write strongly worded letters to the President, we can postpone the Cuban invasion and World War III long enough for us all to make a few fast bucks in fallout-shelter stocks.

Don't bother to write your senator or congressman, they don't run the Central Intelligence Agency.
